Eighteen story cards for piano improvising

How to play • 18 illustrated cards • 18 color-your-own cards

BEES KEYS

Learn the piano key names through play

These cards are about HIGH and LOW, the first thing a beginner's ear can hear. Naming the keys is what comes next, and that is the whole job of Bees Keys: a bee flies across the screen carrying a note name, and your student taps the matching key before it escapes. Free, with no ads, and Bees Keys Pro is a one-time unlock that adds play on your own piano, by mic or MIDI.

BEE'S SOUND GARDEN

Explore improvisation right at the beginning!

Bee's Sound Garden is a way for students to imagine what different sounds in the real world could sound like at the piano. Choose pre-illustrated cards, illustrate your own cards, or let your students have fun creating sounds and drawings to match.

Materials needed: Piano · Cards · Scissors

WAYS TO PLAY

- 1 Print your cards, leave it as a sheet or cut them out and pick at random.
- 2 Tell a story! Let your imagination take you through one card, or a series of cards.
- 3 Draw your own story, then play it at the piano.
- 4 Pay attention to the highs/lows on the card!
- 5 For older students, let them illustrate their own card, choose a scale they're working on, and improvise using that scale over a simple I–IV–V–I progression in either their left hand, or play the chord progression as a duet.

Two decks in one download

Use the pre-illustrated cards, or come up with your own illustrations on the blank cards. Drawing the card first, then playing it is often the part that unlocks a shy improviser.
